PLAYMAKER HOCKEY

Jeff Marshall's Playmaker Hockey Development School is the most unique hockey school offered to area hockey players. The hockey program provides 18 weeks to learn the basic and advanced skill necessary to be a complete hockey skater. The fundamental goals of the Playmaker Hockey School are to reinforce, refine and commit to habit, skating techniques, stick handling, passing and shooting skills. Jeff Marshall's program is founded on the principle that learning skating and hockey skills can be fun! A good time is had by all, even while learning the basic fundamentals that most hockey players don't like to practice.

The Playmaker Hockey Development School will teach skaters the skating skills not taught by any other hockey school or instructors. Skills such as: Mohawks, proper edge technique, skate/body control, along with proper skating form. Skating drills choreographed to music, so as to make this intense training enjoyable, will be an integral part of the school. As the school progresses, skaters will integrate stick and puck handling into their skating maneuvers.

BASIC FACTS

Area hockey clubs and coaches don't have enough time to spend working on their player's skating skills or provide proper conditioning. So many parents have stated that their skaters are in better skating condition in August, after attending the Playmaker Summer Hockey School, than they are in January. Most area hockey coaches spend practice time (as they should) working on the player's game skills. With the power skating portion of this program, skaters will remain in top hockey playing condition all winter and will have better stamina than their teammates and the competition.

Not only will we focus on power skating, but we will also focus on hockey skills. Stick handling, passing and shooting skills will be an integral part of the training.

BUILDING MORE THAN SKILLS

Training doesn't end with just the skills. Attention is given to building the skater's SELF ESTEEM. Students are always encouraged and never put down. We believe every student is in our class because they want to improve. You will never hear us "screaming" at a student or "Cut Them Down". By making our students believe in themselves, we find a greater rate of improvement.

“At the Playmaker Hockey School we put the fun back into the fundamentals of hockey.”

The Playmaker Hockey Schools are under the direction of Jeff Marshall. Jeff has attained the highest levels in figure skating. He brings this training, along with his experience coaching national and international synchronized skating teams along with local travel hockey teams, to this power skating program. Jeff is the skating director for the City of North Olmsted and skating instructor for Baldwin Wallace College.

ENROLLMENT

The Playmaker Hockey Development School enrollment is open to the Mite, Squirt and Pee Wee level hockey player. Enrollment will be limited. Skaters must have had at least one year of hockey experience or have attended any of the Jeff Marshall Hockey Schools. Class acceptance will be on a first come, first served basis. The class fee per session is $90.00.
